Bunubu and the Rootslide Race

Talent is helpful, but practice, kindness, and determination lead to success.

Deep beneath the forest, colorful banners fluttered above the famous Rootslide Race. Bunubu could not wait to join.

The racecourse twisted along giant tree roots that curved, dipped, and spiraled through underground tunnels.

At the starting line, Bunubu noticed a very tiny racer. It was a worm named Wiggle wearing enormous racing goggles.

'Ready, racers?' called Mossy the mole announcer.
'Three, two, one... slide!'

Everyone zoomed down the roots. Bunubu raced through tunnels, around bends, and over bumpy root bridges.

To Bunubu's surprise, Wiggle shot past like a streak of lightning. The tiny worm knew every twist and turn.

At a tricky fork in the roots, several racers took the wrong path. Wiggle kindly pointed them toward the correct tunnel.

Bunubu followed closely and soon reached the final stretch. The crowd cheered as racers zipped toward the finish.

Wiggle crossed the finish line first. Bunubu arrived soon after and happily congratulated the tiny champion.

At the award celebration, Wiggle shared a secret: being small helped, but practicing every day made the real difference. Bunubu smiled and joined the victory dance.

About the Author

Vijay Kukreja

Vijay is a creative writer, technologist, and storyteller who enjoys turning simple ideas into imaginative stories for young readers. His stories are shaped by his own experiences, observations, family life, and curiosity about how technology can support human creativity.

With the help of AI tools, Vijay explores characters, scenes, visuals, and story worlds in new ways. He uses these tools not as a replacement for imagination, but as a creative partner to help bring playful ideas to life.

His goal is to create fun, warm, and engaging stories that children can enjoy, parents can share, and families can read together.
