Chibub and Bunubu: The Goodnight Between Worlds
Friendship helps us share the things we love and creates a place where everyone

One peaceful evening, Chibub sat on his balcony watching the stars twinkle across the sky.

Far below, Bunubu curled up beside the roots of an old tree and whispered goodnight to the glowing tunnels.

'I wish I could say goodnight to the roots too,' said Chibub.

'And I wish I could say goodnight to the stars,' said Bunubu.

So the two friends met halfway between sky and burrow and began building a special room together.

Chibub filled the room with gentle sky glow from moonbeams and starlight lanterns.

Bunubu added warm burrow glow from crystal roots, mushroom lamps, and cozy moss cushions.

Soon the Halfway Room shimmered with both golden root light and soft silver sky light.

Each night, Chibub and Bunubu met there to share stories, sip warm carrot tea, and say goodnight to both stars and roots.

As they drifted off to sleep, the stars twinkled above and the roots glowed below. In the cozy room between worlds, everyone felt right at home.

About the Author

Vijay Kukreja

Vijay is a creative writer, technologist, and storyteller who enjoys turning simple ideas into imaginative stories for young readers. His stories are shaped by his own experiences, observations, family life, and curiosity about how technology can support human creativity.

With the help of AI tools, Vijay explores characters, scenes, visuals, and story worlds in new ways. He uses these tools not as a replacement for imagination, but as a creative partner to help bring playful ideas to life.

His goal is to create fun, warm, and engaging stories that children can enjoy, parents can share, and families can read together.
